

The derivative represents the instantaneous rate of change of a function